Minitran Company Announcement

Minitran has enjoyed a great deal of success and has grown its reputation in the market place over many years. The company is well placed to further expand our market reach through the continuing development of business strategies which are truly aligned to market needs and drivers.

To support our longer term growth and revenue aspirations, we are embarking on an enterprising journey to enhance our strategic approach to the market place which will in turn drive our enhanced solutions offerings.

With this in mind, the company is delighted to announce the strategic appointment of Simon Terry to the position of Chief Executive, effective Monday 7th September.

Simon joins the company having previously held the position of VP Business, Panduit EMEA. Also, Simon was the co-founder and Chief Executive of Unite Technology leading up to its acquisition by Panduit in 2012.

Company Founder and Director Andrew Garfield commented "I am pleased that Simon has agreed to come on board with Minitran. Simon and I are very like-minded and both relish the opportunity to accelerate the further development of Minitran in the market place through the on-going development of focused business strategies to achieve our growth aspirations".

Simon will lead the management team and drive the development and execution of the company's future business plans in conjunction with the highly motivated team based from the company's headquarters in Bishops Stortford.

Simon Terry commented "I am excited at the prospect of taking a proactive stance in the market place to drive business growth. The Company is well placed to achieve growth across the Data Centre and Enterprise markets and has a strong portfolio of supporting strategic partners who continue to bring leading technology solutions to market".

Minitran welcomes Simon and looks forward to the next steps in the progression of the business.
